

Legalising drugs

Discussion

1. Make a list of all the illegal drugs that you know:

.....

2. Which of those are soft drugs and which are hard drugs?

3. Which of the drugs in your list are dangerous? How dangerous are they?

4. Do you know different names for the same drug?

5. Do you know what the following mean?

roll a joint

get high

smoke dope

snort cocaine

become addicted

overdose

come off drugs

an addict

6. What is the law in your country regarding drugs – both possession of drugs and drug dealing?

7. Are there any drugs in your list that you think should be made legal? Which ones and why?

As you read through the article think of the answer to this question:

If you were on the panel, would you have come to the same conclusion?

GRASS IS GOOD FOR YOU

A panel of doctors, economists, parents and police officers in the United States has decided that drugs should be made legal. Their conclusions took into account factors of crime, medicine and even prison space.

"We have a prison population of over 10 million in this country. Many of those are in jail for drug-related crime, such as the sale or possession of illegal substances", said an officer of the Chicago Police Force. Because of new, tough laws, currently 3 out of 5 people in prison are there because of drug-related crimes, which means little space is left for violent criminals, the ones the public would really like to see locked away.

But there were more reasons raised for legalising drugs. "There are cancer patients out there who are wandering around dark streets at night trying to buy marijuana for pain relief," said one of the doctors on the panel. "They should be able to get what they need without entering the criminal underworld."

The effectiveness of marijuana on patients going through chemotherapy has long been known by the medical profession, but political conservatives still raise opposition. One senator spoke out against the panel's conclusions. "I can sympathise with the patients, but the fact is, marijuana is addictive and harmful and we don't want that kind of thing in our communities," he said.

But the panel disagreed. They argued that, although marijuana was admittedly a potentially addictive substance, research has proved that legal substances such as nicotine and alcohol are far more addictive and harmful. "Marijuana actually does some good. The same cannot be said of cigarettes and alcohol."

On other substances, the panel agreed that drugs such as heroin and cocaine did not serve the community in the same way marijuana could, but argued that keeping those substances illegal meant money for criminals. "We don't have people shooting each other over tequila or controlling prostitutes with Marlboros," said a teacher on the panel. "Keeping drugs illegal allows people to do illegal things."

The panel will shortly be presenting its findings to the government.
