Discussion

Work in small groups. Read these texts and discuss the questions below each one.

The Timothy McVeigh Case

More than 1000 survivors of the Oklahoma City bombing in the United States were asked if they wanted to witness the execution of Timothy McVeigh by lethal injection at Terre Haute Federal Prison, Indiana. The death chamber at the prison has only eight seats for witnesses, but over 200 of his victims and their families watched his execution by live video link.

1. Do you feel it is right that the survivors of a terrorist act should be invited to watch the convicted terrorist being executed?
2. Do you think an execution like this should be televised – then anyone who wanted to watch it would have the opportunity? Should the programme be shown around the world on satellite TV?
3. Public hanging was abolished in Britain in 1868 and the death penalty for murder was abolished in 1969. Is this evidence of a more humane and civilised society or of cowardly, left-wing liberalism?

The Saudi Situation

Amnesty International said it knew of more than 1,100 people executed in Saudi Arabia in the past 20 years, with the current average standing at two public beheadings every week. A sword is used and as many as three blows may be required to cut the head off.

1. What is your reaction to this information?
2. Do you think some methods of execution are more acceptable than others? If so, which?
3. "If someone is being executed for a particularly horrendous murder, their death should be as painful and humiliating as possible."
How do you feel about this statement?

The Case of Patrick Nicholls

Patrick Nicholls, jailed for life 23 years ago for the murder of a 74-year-old family friend, was freed yesterday by the Court of Appeal. The court acknowledged that the evidence used to convict Mr Nicholls was unreliable and that the injuries suffered by the 74-year-old were, in all probability, caused by a fall.

1. How do you think Mr Nicholls feels now?
2. How can the state compensate him for 23 years of wrongful imprisonment?
3. Have there been any cases like this in your country recently?
4. Would Mr Nicholls have been executed in your country?

Some countries give relatives of the victim a choice of what should happen to the murderer: they can agree to the murderer being executed, or they can ask for 'blood money' from the murderer as compensation for the loss of their loved one and the murderer goes to prison. What do you think about this?
